SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Let's take a look back into the history of our seniors. As the scene opens we find 64 rowdy, newly initiated 7th graders romping between the houses located down by Campton School. At the end of the year we bid our teachers farewell. To celebrate the occasion we had a beach party on the Beaver River shore.

Entering the 8th grade we found ourselves in our beautiful new school. The gym wasn't completed at this time so the 7th and 8th graders had to take a bus down to Campton for gym classes. Those bus rides are beyond description but, at the end of the 8th grade, all 64 members were accounted for.

We ascended into the 9th grade with many expectations only to find it to pass by quickly, and onward we surged into the 10th grade. This year offered us a chance to participate in the building of a float for homecoming. We slaved on our masterpiece, only to have rain on parade day.

Our junior year, for the most part, was spent planning for our big event--the prom which was successfully held on May 20, 1961. Although we were diligently working on the prom, we still had time to win first place in the Homecoming decoration contest. Our junior year was fun-filled and exciting.

Our class membership was narrowed down to 51 in our senior year, but by working together we have accomplished a great deal. We started off by again winning the Homecoming decoration award. As time passed we realized a need for money to finance our senior trip. We sold class pins and held a candy sale just before Christmas.

This year was the first year for a Winter Carnival, and there the seniors took first prize for the Snow Sculpture contest. Aside from earning money and winning prizes, we have had time to enjoy ourselves.

With graduation quickly drawing close the seniors are busily applying for college, looking for jobs, and trying to juggle finances. Plans for the future are being considered. On June 6 we seniors will part, but the memory of a four years of good times together will be firmly implanted.

CLASS OF 1962 PROPHECY

Walking on the shore of Lake Superior one misty night I saw a giant rising from the lake. "I am Neptune" he said, "King of Mariners." "I can answer all of your questions." Immediately I quipped, "Can you tell me about my classmates?" He reached into the depths of the lake and produced a spy glass. "Look into the magic lens and see for yourself." I put the glass to my eye and I found myself at the 1972 "World's Fair." There was Bill Axtell, chief architect for the Fair. The lens began to turn and a new land came before my eyes. Africa, what a beautiful land! Why there is Frank Camacho and Tom Richard. The sign says, "Peace Corps Engineers." And there's Donna Kent and Marjorie Sando all dressed in white. They must be nurses in that newly-constructed hospital. A second later the lens turned and there I was peering at the front of the Italian opera house. A huge sign proclaimed the opening of America's sensational opera star, Judy "the lark" Wennen. The orchestra is under the direction of the first female conductor, Myrna Michelson and a special piano solo will be played by one of America's great teachers of the piano, Miss Beverly Korpela. How wonderful I thought and I actually know these people. With a whirl of the lens I was seeing France for the first time. There's the school where Linda Waxlax is a school marm, and beyond the school lies the largest tree farm in the world operated by David Cronquist and Gary Fletcher. "Gary," Neptune informed me, "is writing a book in his spare time entitled, IS IT IS OR IS IT AIN'T? Germany was my next stop via the magic lens. "Why there's Kathy Cone dressed in a WAC uniform and singing to a troupe of soldiers. Over yonder was Lowell Zimmerman in a white chemist coat. "Wow! this is grand," I exclaimed. "Here I was in wonderland--There's Mary Pat Menard, better known as Peter Pan, and it looks like she is still proclaiming, "I won't grow up." Could that be Daryl Strandlien walking in and out of this world of magic?" Say, there's Mike Morgan and he still looks great doing his "Geronte Twist." Off to another world the lens took me. Neptune pointed to an especially long cloud--"That's Bill Lundsten," I blurted out. "Yes," said Neptune, "He holds the world's highest jump record." Down to earth again, my lens showed me Jim Furness. Jim was a farmer. Ronnie Gregg was standing next to him and out in the field I could see Cliff Knutson and LeRoy Fields. LeRoy was practicing sliding into home and Cliff was taking pictures. With a twist of the lens I spotted a large business office in downtown New York. There sat Larry Sveback dictating to his secretaries, Judy Shepherd and Julie Prasnicki. Ann Nikolai was busily answering many telephones and Carlene Peretto was preparing a snack of pizza for the office help. This was indeed a busy scene. Then I spotted Marv Schmid. "Marv," Neptune observed, "is considered one of New York's finest lawyers." None other than Kermit Walker was sitting on the bench-- Kermit a judge? South now the lens took me to Washington where I saw the former Pam Haugen sight seeing. I also spotted Larry Meyers chauffeuring the President. I hoped it didn't have pipes. In Florida the lens provided a magnificent view of the Petersen, Fish Resort. There was Lenine Petersen lounging on the beach. "The resort," Neptune said, "was an investment made by Lenine and Clarence. Lenine beautifies the beach and Clarence keeps the "sharks" away." Turning west I saw Lorraine Brink making a tour of an Air Base. Strangely enough there was Dick Haglund all decked out in a uniform leading the tour around the base. Mary Anderson showed up in Mississippi--proving that she had enough time in a day to do her housework and go for a joy ride. In New Orleans I spotted LeVon Overgard and Susie Ronning operating a do-it-yourself beauty salon. My next sight was that of a Geological exhibition shop. Pam Sherwood was the proprietor. Bob Erickson was the engineer in charge of all geological trips. I turned the lens and there in front of my very eyes stood Dick Auer with a ruler in his hand, talking about the importance of discipline to a classroom of eager students. I was surprised to find Fran Spears and Jyoce Lamoureux among these students. Fran picking up tips in order to better the behavior of her seven children. In California I found Denny Miller busily directing the making of sets for a large production company. And on the set Sue Ehlers carefully and patiently tutoring a new child star. Heading back to Minnesota the lens stopped at the U of M football field and there was Dave Halverson with coach written across his jacket. At a new hospital I found Dr. Bob Hangartner with his golden curls missing. He must have had a tough time in medical school. Holly Schramm was head medical record librarian and there was Avis Cronquist, head nurse, giving instructions to the Nursery Supervisor Roberta Mathews. Thus my trip through the magic lens had ended. I was relieved to see that all of my classmates were doing ever so well. Having satisfied my curiosity, I, Pat Kalkbrenner, returned to writing the last chapter in my latest novel.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THE 1962 SENIOR CLASS

I, Kermit Walker, will my "key" to Duane Keller . . . it's at the bottom of the Beaver River in front of Bob Hangartner's cabin! I, Holly Schramm, will my ability to find bugs in my scalloped potatoes to Joy Ann Manzer. I, Pat Kalkbrenner, will to Marilyn Ann Tourje my distinguished nickname "poops" . . . henceforth to be known in high school as Miss Van Aster Poop! I, Lenine Peterson, will my long eye-lashes and my ability to flirt with the boys to Joy Ann Manzer . . . actually she doesn't need them. I, Davis Cronquist, will my ability to get excused absences for deer hunting to Dale Hartshorn. I, David Brouse, will my ability to get to school every day "on time" to Jim Chupurdia. I, Linda Ebba Waxlax, will my boomerang to Sue Lewis. I, Larry Meyer, will my ability to acquire girlfriends to my brother Gary . . . he really needs it. I, Mary Anderson, will my privilege to will someone something to Laura David. I, Ronnie Gregg, noted ping pong player of William M. Kelley High School, will my title and my ping pong ball to Rusty Moen. I, Judy Shepherd, will my front seat by the window in English class to Connie Dietrich . . . you'd be surprised about the English you learn looking out the window! I, LaVon Overgard, will my ability to "twist" to Penny Manzer. I, Roberta Matthews, will my talent for pushing little blue cars with my white gloves on to Suzanne Sorum. I, Judy Wennen, will my flowing tresses to Annette Baum. I, Beverly Korpela, leave my speech evasion talent to Joann Backlund. I, Tom Richard, will my favorite parking place to Jack Buxton. I, Francisco Paulino Camacho, will my way with all the girls to Roger Michalski . . . I'll keep some of it, thanks. I, Margie Sando, will my steady's convertible top to George Pope. I, Frances Spears, will my ability to keep my boyfriend to Barbara Hudyma. I, Julie Prasnicky, will my sister, Helen, an all-girl English class. I, Donna Kent, will my hair styles to Melvin Myers. I, Susan Ehlers, will my "annual" ulcers to any junior who likes warm milk. I, Lorraine Brink, will my love of English to my sister, Colleen. I, Susie Ronning, will my ability to be first engaged senior to Marilyn Klemmer. I, Pam Haugen, will my noisiness to Janice Strand. I, Pam Sherwood, will my poise to Sandra Munson. I, Bill Axtell, will my athletic intelligence to Richard Allen. I, Carlene Perfetto, will my job in the Business Department to Linda Holden. I, Mary Pat Menard, will my gay deceivers to Tony Auer . . . they might be of some value if he is ever cast as a heroine. I, Dave Halvorson, will my enthusiasm for band to Barb Nielson. I, Cliff Knutson, will all my incomplete homework to Edson Morris. I, James Furness, will my driving ability to Dennis Moen. I, Mike Morgan, will my membership in the YWCA to Roger Holman. I, Dennis Miller, will my ability on set to Carol Rhode. I, Bob Ericson, will my repertoire of jokes to Kenneth Westin. I, Robert Hangartner, will my ability to backcomb my hair to Adrian Van De Voort. I, Myrna Mickelson, will my ability to talk continuously during band practice to my sister Joan. I, Avis Cronquist, will my brother, Davis, to Kathy Anderson, tax-free. I, Gary Fletcher, will my ability to run in the ditch to Elwood Shaffer. I, Joyce Lamoureux, will my ability to snag boyfriends to Susan Harling. I, Dick Haglund, will my ability to be aggressive to Rick Rukavina. I, Bill Lundsten, will my "dunk-shot" to Don Michael. I, Daryl Strandlein, will my alertness in class to Dee Ann Haase. I, Elmer Fadness, will my quietness to Susan Groberg. I, Kathryn Cone, will my sweet smile to Rennay Joanis. I, Lowell Zimmerman, will my acting ability in law class to Patricia Lovold. I, Marvin Schmid, will my acting ability to Alan LaBelle. I, Ann Nikolai, will my ability to get 4-H prizes to Nancy Metzinger. I, Clarence Fish, will my swimming ability to Mike Sarff. I, Richard Auer, will my talent to be a good kid to Beverly Nikolai.
